Figure 1. Schematic representation of the experimental design. The subjects were divided into two groups: the control group (n = 10) and the intervention group (n = 10). The control group received a standard care protocol, while the intervention group received a standard care protocol plus a 12-week intervention program. The intervention program consisted of a combination of physical and psychological interventions. The subjects were assessed at baseline, 4 weeks, 8 weeks, and 12 weeks. The primary outcome was the change in the level of physical activity, measured in minutes per week. The secondary outcome was the change in the level of psychological well-being, measured in the SF-36 questionnaire.
